prospect of much real work being done until after New Year's, though Speaker Garner threatened he would send out warrants for absent house members on Tuesday if necessary to assure a quorum.

The Senate vote yesterday was not a test of beer sentiment. It was merely the occasion for dry to join with many wets in delaying the issue.

Democrats have decided to steer House beer bill through the Judiciary and finance committees before tackling it on the floor. That procedure will be followed now without serious question.

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, who sought yesterday to force the issue, and some others believe the Judiciary committee route prescribed for beer will prevent consideration at this session.

Dr. J. J. Connelley is organizing to obstruct the bill all along the route. But leaders of both parties promise a vote this winter.

Repeal is even further from final action. Some Senate Democrats believe Speaker Garner can be dissuaded from his determination to bar from the House floor all repeal proposals except out-right, unqualified abandonment of the 15th amendment on December 5.

Democrats on the Senate Judiciary subcommittee considering repeal have co-operated in drafting a tentative repeal resolution. It would protect dry states and ban the liquor throughout the United States. One section of the resolution remains to be drafted fixing the manner in which the issue shall be submitted to the states.

Unless Garner modifies his position, such a repeal proposal would not be permitted to come to a House vote this winter.

Chairman Blaine of the subcommittee sought a meeting today but abandoned the idea because Senator Herbert, Republican, Rhode Island, could not be present. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, is the only sub-committee member opposed to repeal in some form. The committee probably will report the resolution soon after the holidays.

Chairman Norris of the Judiciary committee hopes to get to work on the house beer bill Monday but it is doubtful if a quorum will be available.

DEBTS ACTION TO HOLD OVER UNTIL SPRING

country at that time if he were to be appointed.

While Davis' conference here and his forthcoming meeting with Roosevelt raised slight hopes that the outgoing and incoming administrations might yet be able to achieve a degree of co-operation in foreign affairs, officials generally remained depressed by the breakdown of the Hoover-Roosevelt negotiations for prompt action on war debt revision.

The administration followed closely the talks in Paris between French Premier Paul-Boncour and United States Ambassador Edge, but felt little progress could be made.

The state department is prepared to carry on conversations with France or any other debtor who approaches it. But it can make no commitments and hence it appears such conversations would be futile.

Some state department officials also believe it will be difficult to prepare an agenda for the world economic conference without a clear idea of future debt policies. For one thing, the problem of monetary stabilization in such countries as Great Britain, now off the gold standard, is closely linked with the amount of money the country must transfer across exchange barriers to the United States to apply on war debts.

Mr. Hoover had proposed to exchange war debt payments for foreign concessions to American exports. The nature of these concessions was to be discussed in the economic conference. Now it is unknown whether Roosevelt will approve such transactions. His telegram to Mr. Hoover indicated he believed war debts should be treated separately from general economic questions.

The second meeting of the experts committee for the economic conference is scheduled for January 9 at Geneva. The American experts, John H. Williams and Edmund Day, are now in this country, conferring with the state department. Whether they will return to Geneva in time for the meeting is unknown. Whether the conference will now be held on the designated date is unknown.

Moreover, some officials fear that the failure of efforts to begin war debt negotiations immediately may hazard future collections. One expert who worked on the negotiations over the December 15 payment said today the Roosevelt administration would have difficulty in concluding agreements between March 4 and June 15, when the next payment is due.

Unless new agreements are made, more defaults are expected. Great Britain, when making its recent $85,550,000 payment, served notice that it would pay no more under the existing agreement. Every default, officials believe, adds to the difficulty of future collections.

SEA CAPTAIN HAS NEW XMAS PLEASURE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—(UP)—Capt. F. E. Anderson of the Dollar liner President Hoover will eat his Christmas dinner at home in San Francisco for the first time in 22 years.

The skipper, who has been roaming the seas for 52 years, caused such surprise when he cabled his family that his wife met him when the ship touched port here yesterday. For the last 22 years, Anderson had eaten his Christmas dinner in virtually every leading port in the world. An unexpected change in the ship's schedule made the San Francisco

Christmas Meditation

The Ideals of Christmas

By C. E. ROBERTS

The Ideals of Christmas are, Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men. So sang the angel chorus on that first Christmas eve.

Now peace means more than absence of war, and Good Will should result in more than a trade excursion. Peace is an inner condition of mind and spirit, which results from a right adjustment to life and a right attitude toward God and right. This is a "rather large order," but not impossible to fulfill. Our lives get tangled, sometimes, because of the greed and meanness of others, but more often, perhaps, by our own; so peace is usually of our own choosing; indeed, it is always so. Jesus stood calm and peaceful, while the multitudes cried, "Crucify Him"; and He promised to leave His peace with us. He set the example of peace on earth, good will to men.

It is given to only a few choice spirits to attain peace of soul amid adverse conditions. To most of us it is necessary to have employment, and friends and family, and whatever else makes for well-being. Any condition that hinders, or that favors one class above another, "disturbs the peace." It is well, however, to have a "divine discontent" that tries, always, to better conditions.

Christmas is the birthday of the Christian movement that is undertaking to extend peace and good-will to all the earth; first peace of soul, then civic or national peace and, finally, peace among the nations. But this must be based upon sacrifice as well as justice. Were we to get justice without mercy, we might not fare so well.

The Romans "made a desolation and called it peace"; but Jesus taught us—forgetful pupils—a better way. He attacked evil, in the only place and way in which it can be conquered, in the heart of the evil doer. We need more inner compulsion and less legislation.

Are we ready to make the sacrifice in order to have a better world? Are we willing to spread the work, and the pay and the comforts to the "whole family?" There is enough, and to spare, for all, if only we had, throughout the year, the Christmas, family spirit of sharing. Merry Christmas.

BURGLARS GET $40 FROM GAS STATION

Burglars broke into the service station at 1402 South Main street some time last night and stole two money sacks containing $40 in cash, according to a report made to the city police this morning.

The sacks had been concealed underneath a counter in the store, and apparently were taken, it was said, by someone who knew their location in advance.

Entrance to the service station was made with the aid of a pass key. The station carried burglary insurance and is fully covered, police reported.

FIVE CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 24.—(UP)—Five young children in the family of Patrick Weir, a crippled and unemployed ex-serviceman, were burned to death today when fire destroyed Weir's home.

The children ranged in age from 2 to 12 years. Weir and his wife were injured trying to save the children. Only Joan, seven months old, escaped. The child was taken to hospital with her parents.

Dorothy Humiston Here For Holiday

Miss Dorothy Humiston, instructor in the State Teachers' Training College at Cedar Falls, Iowa, arrived last night to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Humiston. The arrival of Miss Humiston was a surprise to her father, who is bailiff in department three, superior court and brings the entire family home for the Christmas holidays for the first time in two years.

of the big railroads, apparently had run its course and the group was in a position to profit by a smaller than seasonal decline in car loadings for the week ended December 17. The total for that week made the smallest percentage decline as compared with 1931 for any week so far this year.

The steel industry furnished some bright spots of which Youngstown was the outstanding example. Operations in steel mills in the Youngstown district at the beginning of next week will be at 15 per cent of capacity, an increase of 3 points over the previous week.

The magazine "Steel" found steel operations had been pruned down to about 12 per cent for the country as a whole for the holiday period and expected another point drop shortly. However, the review added, "It is not believed that the average daily rate for December will decline to the level of the all time low of August."

All financial and commodity markets will be closed Monday as will banks throughout the country. They will reopen Tuesday. Many of the foreign markets will remain closed through Tuesday.

According to preliminary calculation, the Dow Jones and Company industrial average stood at 27.98, up 1.18; railroad 24.48, up 0.42, and utility 26.65, up 0.30.

Sales were 329,629 shares, compared with 412,644 shares last Saturday.

Aggregate market value of 10 leading stocks was $5,346,502,661 against $5,286,971,167 yesterday, an advance of $59,531,494.

HOOVER STARTS VACATION TRIP THIS MORNING

by the Spaniards a year after the founding of St. Augustine.

The host is among Mr. Hoover's war time associates at Washington. He was appointed to President Hoover's naval consulting board in 1915 and later to the advisory commission of the council of national defense which chose Mr. Hoover as food administrator.

The president has left war debts and kindred problems behind and refuses to consider anything more serious than the "fishin' tackle" in his luggage. He is going to "loaf," Lawrence Richey, his secretary said.

"He needs a rest, and his mind is going to be free for the next 10 days—free except when he's got a big one on the line," Richey added.

The first day's fishing was scheduled for somewhere not far south of Savannah. The plan was to cruise down the Savannah river and the inland pass, a canal, for about "three hours or so," Richey said, and then leave to and throw out the lines.

How far south the 10-day cruise goes depends, he said, on "how they're biting and the weather."

The presidential train carried only a small party southward. The guests included Senator and Mrs. Warren Austin of Vermont, Justice and Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, Mark Sullivan, Lawrence Richey, and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

ENGLAND, ARK., HIT BY TORNADO TODAY

ENGLAND, Ark., Dec. 24.—(UP)—England, Ark., scene of food riots two years ago, was swept by a tornado today. Twelve persons were injured and 14 houses demolished. Many trees were uprooted.

Mayor W. O. Williams said 45 houses in the surrounding territory were damaged.

He estimated the damage in England at $25,000. Everyone in the town had been accounted for and those injured did not receive serious hurts.

W. T. Ashcraft, who made a tour of the damaged area, said the tornado cut a path 100 yards wide, and damaged many houses and uprooted trees. Many other homes were unroofed.

rescue crews from Springfield went down.

"Hurry, for God's sake," a woman screamed.

Walter L. Moody, chief of state highway police and 10 of his men pushed the crowd back so a supply of fresh air would be available for the pumps.

Calm in the face of the emergency, Miss Helen Bay, mine bookkeeper, assumed responsibility of giving out information. She reassured distracted wives, mothers, sisters and children of the miners.

"We are getting air to the men through an overshoot that was put up after the explosion," she said. "We think we can bring them all up alive."

NEEDY PERSONS OF SANTA ANA RECEIVE FOOD

Salvation Army. Last night the Salvation Army made happy the hearts of hundreds of Santa Ana children and their parents as the annual Christmas tree and party was held in headquarters on North Sycamore street. More than 200 baskets were distributed today by the Army, and more than 300 children, last night, received presents, candy, nuts and apples at the celebration.

Prisoners in the county jail today were "all set" for a turkey dinner, including vegetables, pumpkin pie, mashed potatoes and gravy which is to be served tomorrow, according to Jailer Theodore Lacy.

Cheer For Shut-Ins. Hospitals were serving menus today and tomorrow ranging from meat roasts to turkey and all the "trimmings," leaving little room for the belief that there is still a depression, insofar as Christmas dinners are concerned.

Many of the 600 families in the city which were aided today were helped by the Santa Ana post, American Legion, and the auxiliary.

Hundreds of children were made happy through the distribution of toys by the Santa Ana Fire department, which started yesterday.

ALSO WANTED BY OFFICIALS IN LOS ANGELES

Jack Sandow, 37, former convict, who has been in San Quentin twice and Polson twice since 1915, and who escaped from the city police here last Wednesday night after they had arrested him for burglary, was re-captured last night at Norwalk by City Police Officers B. A. Hershey and Charles Wolford.

He was brought back to the county jail where he was booked on four charges of burglary and one charge of escaping from an officer. All are felony counts. Sandow, who formerly worked with the federal agents here as an undercover man when they were attempting to get evidence in the city, made no resistance when he was surprised in his hideout at Norwalk. Officers had previously received a tip that he could be found there.

Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard announced today that charges of burglary of the following houses would be lodged against Sandow, following their belief that he had committed the crimes with James Lanford, of 202 West Washington avenue, who was arrested at the same time Sandow escaped Wednesday night: The home of A. J. McFadden, 1108 North Main street, burglarized on December 7 at which time a number of tools were taken; S. P. Ozment, 1215 North Ross street, burglarized on December 7, and a number of tools taken from the garage; J. N. Harding, 1407 Bush street, on December 21, at which time $30 worth of household goods were stolen and the home of V. J. Dixon, of 802 South Parton street, entered December 12. Tools also were stolen there.

The Los Angeles police, learning that Sandow had been re-arrested asked that a hold be placed on him for their department, in connection with an investigation that is now taking place which may connect him with several Los Angeles hold ups and probably a murder in connection with one of the holdups, the sheriff's office announced today.

Class Members In Gift Exchange

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 24.—The sophomore boys' Sunday school class of the Methodist Episcopal church entertained a group of sophomore girls with a 7 o'clock dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Keele on College street this week. Mrs. W. B. Merchant is the class teacher.

The group was seated at a table centered with Santa Claus in a sleigh pulling six reindeer on a bank of snow. Other decorations were tall red tapers and holly. Covers were placed for Dorothy Sutor, Margaret Phillips, Maxine McConnell, Janice Lenard, Lois Marks, Catherine Donahue, Valoe Patterson, Leonard Schauer, Bill Newsum, Ray Devine, Bob Schauer, Donald Powers, Ansel Lewis, Richard Keele, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merchant and Mr. and Mrs. Keele.

"FOR SANTA CLAUS, DADDY!"

Those scribbled notes to Santa Claus—will they be answered? Jobless fathers swallow hard, pat little heads and hope so. And youngsters won't find their stocking empty Christmas morning or their stomach empty Christmas night if the Salvation Army and the Unemployed association can help it. Your contribution will help spare childhood the heartache of a cheerless Christmas morning.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE; DO WHAT YOU CAN NOW

BY KENNETH ADAMS

Thoughtful and unselfish residents of Santa Ana have a greater opportunity this year than any Christmas for many years past to relieve the anxiety of parents who are worrying today because they fear there will be no Christmas dinner for their children—and even more reason for their cares is the fear that Santa Claus may pass by their eager-eyed children.

Christmas, in the material sense, means little to many unemployed and needy families in Santa Ana this year, and lack of money to buy their children gifts is causing more heart-aches than perhaps anyone knows.

Although the response to the invitation broadcast by the Salvation Army and the Unemployed association for funds and food for needy families has been excellent, there is still ample opportunity to aid in the Christmas work this year.

And it is not only at Christmas-time that the need is great it is here until conditions improve so me nout of work can go back to their jobs.

If many residents of the city who pay little attention to the needs of those less fortunately situated than they are, would spend a half hour in the Salvation Army headquarters on Sycamore street and watch the small children waiting in line to get their pail of milk—if they could see the class of people in the city and many of the transient men who seek aid, the response for help would undoubtedly be even greater.

The other afternoon a good-looking little fellow brought his pail to the Army headquarters for milk. The pail was filled, and he said, "Hock, I can drink that milk milk myself." No bread for the boy either, the supply having run out. Can anyone help but wonder where his toys are coming from; where his mother is going to scrape up enough food for a Christmas dinner? That is, unless charitable organizations have enough funds to buy them baskets for Christmas?

INSTALLATION OF W. R. C. JANUARY 4

ORANGE, Dec. 24.—Making plans for their open installation to be held January 4, members of the Orange Woman's Relief corps met recently in Smith and Grote hall.

A covered lunch preceded the business meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Emma Wells, Mrs. Rozalia Smith, Mrs. Ida Cunningham, Mrs. Julia Miller and Mrs. Lucy Robinson. The role of Santa Claus was enacted by W. W. Perry in the gift exchange following. Mrs. Grace Strickland sang appropriate solos.

The installation service January 4 is to be preceded by a covered dish dinner, to be served at 6:30 o'clock in the hall. Mesdames Hatfield, Buhrman, Grace Deck, Edna McCullum and Essie Rogers will be on the dinner committee. Mrs. Gladys McDonald, of this city, a department officer, and Mrs. Pearl Higgins, will conduct the ceremony.

Mrs. Euphemia Rails was in charge of the business meeting, during which plans were made for distribution of 35 Christmas baskets. The corps decided to give a sum of money to the Orange welfare board to use in spreading Christmas cheer. Members also filled a basket with varied articles to be sent to a World War veteran and his family in San Fernando.

SHERIFF HOLDS SUSPECTS FOR HOLDUP PROBE

Two men, arrested in Fullerton by Fullerton police yesterday afternoon are being held in the county jail on petty theft charges while deputy sheriffs today investigate their possible participation in the holdup of Charlie Gillis, former notorious bootlegger at his home west of Anaheim, Thursday night.

The men gave the names of George S. Green, 32, a locomotive fireman of 337 San Pedro street, Los Angeles, and John Sharp, 37, of the same address.

They were arrested in Fullerton on charges of shoplifting and were lodged in jail here for petty theft.

The theory that the men may have participated in the Gillis holdup is based on the description that Gillis gave officers of the men who beat and robbed him as he was returning to his home on Lincoln avenue Thursday night. One of them had a long scar on his neck, Gillis reported, and one of the men arrested in Fullerton has a similar scar.

At the same time it was announced by the sheriff that the Los Angeles police department had placed a hold on the men here while they investigate their possible participation in several Los Angeles holdups recently.

At about the same time the men were arrested in Fullerton, C. W. Riggie, deputy sheriff, and other deputies raided a house west of Anaheim, where they found a cutting plant for liquor, and confiscated some 20 gallons of alcohol and other liquors, they reported. That these same men were connected with the liquor cutting plants and that the location was the same where they have been staying for the past several days was being investigated by officers.

Bridge Enjoyed In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 24.—The home of Mrs. Arthur J. Woodworth on West Stanford street was the scene of a delightful Christmas party this week, when she entertained members of the Octagon club.

Members of the club arrived at 1 o'clock for the dessert course. The tables were centered with tall red tapers in attractive red paper holders, with nut cups and place cards in packaging with the Christmas spirit. Packages for a gift exchange were placed beneath a Christmas tree.

After an afternoon of bridge, first prize was awarded to Mrs. Eugene Thomas, while consolation went to Mrs. Charles Hunt.

Those present were Mrs. Charles Hunt, of Anaheim; Mrs. Eugene Thomas, of Irvine; Mrs. F. C. Arnn, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Claudine Irvine, Mrs. Ray Johnson, Mrs. L. A. Ford, Mrs. Charles Lake and the hostess, Mrs. Woodworth.

AFTER FLU Be Especially Careful of Children's Colds

Health Authorities Warn That Chief Danger in Present Epidemic is AFTER Influenza

WHEN a cold attacks a child whose system has been weakened by Flu, it is more dangerous than ever. More apt to lead to bronchitis, pneumonia or other serious complications. And what is true of children's colds is equally true of adults' colds.

Take no chances now. Avoid all colds possible. Treat every cold promptly. For greatest safety and protection follow Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. Full details are given in each Vicks package, but, briefly, the Plan is this:

TO BUILD RESISTANCE: See that children get plenty of rest and sleep. That they eliminate regularly. Keep them in the open air as much as possible. Give them light, wholesome food to eat—plenty of water to drink.

TO PREVENT MANY COLDS: Watch the kiddies—especially after exposure to any conditions apt to cause a cold. At the first sign of nasal irritation or stuffiness, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—the new aid in preventing colds. Many colds can be avoided.

TO END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has already developed, or strikes without warning, give a mild laxative, if needed. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops for added comfort and relief.

Adults, As Well As Children, Should Follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds

Willard Smith, Orange banker and supervisor from the second district, who, it is said, is an unanimous choice of the other members for chairman of the board of supervisors.

May Extend Time For Serving Food At San Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 24.—San Clemente may serve free meals to needy travelers for the next two or three months, a proposal to this effect having been made to Mayor Thomas Murphine and Dan Mulherson, president of the chamber of commerce. Originally it was planned to serve the meals during the holiday period.

The meals are being served in the log cabin, which was erected as part of the Coast Highway Christmas decorations.

P. W. Smith, head of the food committee, says donations of red (Mexican) beans, carrots and turnips for muligans, canned milk, coffee and ham and bacon to cook with the beans are needed. Donations of money or food may be taken to P. W. Smith at the cabin. Dan Mulherson at the chamber of commerce office or to Mayor Murphine at the city office.

SMITH SLATED AS CHAIRMAN SUPERVISORS

With two new county supervisors scheduled to take office at the first meeting of the board in January, it was learned today that at the annual reorganization of the board, Willard Smith, Orange banker and supervisor from the second district, is slated to become chairman.

Smith is serving his second term as supervisor and in addition to representing his district on the board is chairman of the supervisors' water committee and has directed this county's negotiations with Riverside and San Bernardino counties over the Tri-County water agreements.

Smith's election as chairman of the board, it is understood has already been arranged between the two new members who will be seated on January 3 and George Jeffries, supervisor from the fifth district and John Mitchell, supervisor from the fourth district. Smith will succeed Mitchell, present chairman of the board.

The two new supervisors who will take office on January 3, are William C. Jerome, Santa Ana, representing the first district, and LeRoy Lyons, Placentia orange grower and active member of the Orange County Farm Bureau, as supervisor from the third district. Jerome succeeds Charles Chapman who declined to run for re-election as supervisor from the first district.

Lyons succeeds William Schumacher, supervisor from the third district for the past 20 years who was defeated at the election in November.

POLICE OFFICER HURT IN CRASH

City Police Officer N. C. Nelson was slightly injured late yesterday afternoon when a police car in which he was making an emergency call, struck another car in front of the Santa Ana post office.

Nelson was able to answer the call, but later complained of bruised and possible fractured ribs and is at his home today.

The car, which collided with the police car, was parked near the post office and was being backed out from the curb just as Nelson came along. No one else was hurt.

S. A. Pastors Extend Christmas Greetings

BRING MESSAGE OF GOOD WILL TO COMMUNITY

Christmas greetings designed to reach the fireside of every home in Santa Ana, were voiced today by ministers of Santa Ana churches. Their greetings follow:

The greeting by the Rev. Harry Evan Owens, pastor of the First Baptist church, follows:

"Christmas! It is the time when our hearts are most open and overflow most freely with thoughtfulness, goodwill and love. It is the time when we come nearest to heaven's Christmas wish for mankind—'Peace on earth, goodwill to men.' And this occurs because at Christmas God expressed His love through His noblest gift to men—Jesus Christ—and earth came to know its smotherless possession—the Christ-spirit."

The Christmas message by the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of the St. Peter Lutheran church, said: "Is there room for Christ in your heart? There was no room for Him in the inn. Is He your Saviour? He shall save His people from their sins. Do you praise His name? God hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name above every name. Let brotherly love continue!"

A Christmas greeting for Register readers from Father F. A. Wekenman, pastor of St. Joseph's church said:

"May the heavenly message of the angelic hosts, 'Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth to men of good will,' find an echo in the heart of every citizen of our community. May the divine love of the Infant Saviour for all mankind be reflected in their social, civic and domestic life. And, may we one and all seek in the greatness of His poverty and abasement in Bethlehem a renewal of courage in all our trials and a constancy of soul to live in spirit with Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, until He calls us to enjoy the unending Christmas of eternity."

The Rev. E. W. Matz, pastor of the First Evangelical church, sent out the following Christmas greeting: "May He who by the star of the east led the wise men to Bethlehem give you the light and joy of a blessed Christmas. Let both the solemn hush and transcendent joy of the season fill your hearts with the spirit of good will to all men."

Adj. F. S. Gantrell of the Salvation Army, said, "The Salvation Army extends greetings to its many friends. Our Christmas effort is nearly over, and we wish to thank each person in nearby cities who has helped in any way to make our Christmas relief program the success it has been. And now we wish all our friends and supporters a merry Christmas and a prosperous and happy New Year."

To citizens and friends of Santa Ana, greetings were sent by the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, who said, "We wish for you all the merriest and most cheerful Christmas, in the midst of our trials and problems, that it has been yours to experience, and the blessings of the happiest and most prosperous New Year in health and in wealth, and a faith in Him whose birthday we celebrate next Sunday, for it is He alone that can bring us prosperity and happiness."

MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

BY PAUL O. WHEELER, Engine Co. No. 2

REMEMBER THE DAYS, when you were young, as you cuddled at your mother's knee, and listened to the tales of the Christ child as Dad decorated the tree? How the three wise men of the East, had seen a bright shining star that heralded the note that Christ was born, and came from near and far.

It is the faith we have in this new Babe, that we hang our stockings at night, for we know next morn, the presents we find, will be a wondrous sight; many a Mother and dear old Dad, are wondering what their child will find; when they arise, to see what Santa has left, for they have had a very hard time.

But dear old Santa, he never forgets. He has seen a world in distress; so he asked the Firemen if they would jump in and help him out of this mess; "You bet Saint Nick, we are glad to help, and you can be filled with good cheer; for we have toys, candy and nuts, no child will be left out this year."

No Santa went back to his home in the north, to return again Christmas, that's sure, to see that each kiddie gets toys and nuts, no matter, rich, or be poor. It is no disgrace misfortune is here, let us accept what we get with a smile; remember this, we are not down and out, we are only indisposed for a while.

We ask God's blessings on all this land, upon our government and president too, that they may exercise only God's will, in everything that they do; may our Saviour's love be with you all, as we commemorate the day of His birth; and may He forgive us of our sins, and return prosperity to earth.

DR. J. H. PULLIN TO MAKE SECOND TRIP TO SOUTH SEA ISLES

Dr. J. H. Pullin, 1806 North Broadway, fast gaining a reputation as a traveler, is planning another trip to the South Seas and Orient. It was learned today. He will leave on the $8,000,000 S.S. The Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, wrote a Christmas message on the subject, "Christmas and Human Nature," which follows:

"Human nature is better than we thought it was. Humanity is made of better stuff than we have dared to believe. Christmas brings to the surface the better elements of human nature. We may act selfishly most of the time but Christmas reveals that we have a lot of unselfishness in us. We may act indifferently most of the year but at Christmas time we are mindful of other people and we are conscious of their burdens and difficulties and we are more sympathetic with their frailties and we really want to be friendly with them."

"If we are better than we thought we were. What a pity it is that this better part of us does not keep on top all of the time!"

Calvary church, through the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren, sends the following message to the Santa Ana public:

"The usual and proper salutation for the season is: Merry Christmas. But one hesitates a bit giving that this year. To the many who can look back and recall bountiful laden tables and happy children with new Christmas toys but now face Christmas with nothing to eat and eager, expectant children doomed to disappointment, such a salutation seems a bit of a taunt. The Christmas spirit has turned to bitter resentment in many hearts. And even God is blamed! After nearly two thousand years since God gave the first Christmas gift. His only begotten Son with the promise of 'peace on earth, good will toward men,' why such a condition on earth? There is but one answer—this world has rejected the Gift. The real Christmas spirit comes with that Gift and may that Gift be yours is the wish and prayer of Calvary church."

The Rev. T. W. Ringland, pastor of the First United Brethren church, took the text of his message from the Bible, "When they say the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." The message said: "The Christmas season is a time of joy and rejoicing and this with best of reason and right. When the wise men of the east who had been looking for this great light to appear saw the star they rejoiced. So we have even greater reasons for joy than did they, for the star of Bethlehem has become a sun, which has dispelled the darkness of unfaith and become a new day. May we be a blessing to others in the name of the Christ."

Following is a message which was written by the Rev. O. W. Heinus, pastor of the Richland avenue Methodist church:

"Christmas is, because one night the heavens opened and the angels' song came pouring down. Then He, whose birthday it is, God's divine Troubadour, with an inexpressible joy in His soul carried the song for all the people. The

WILL ROGERS AT WALKER'S ON SUNDAY

Back to his native Oklahoma again after filming his recent pictures against various foreign locales, Will Rogers has the star role in "Down to Earth," his new Fox offering which opens Sunday at Walker's State theater, on a double feature program with Bill Boyd in "Carnival Boat."

Rogers fans will recall the hectic adventures of Pike Peters and his family abroad in "They Had to See Paris," his first talking picture. In "Down to Earth" the whimsical "Pike" reappears after his trip, once more guiding the destinies of his oil company. The recent Wall street crash, however, has seriously affected his holdings and he becomes worried over his family's expenditures. The failure of a bank in which he is interested brings matters to a crisis, hastened when his wife's social aspirations wreck his attempts to negotiate a loan from the local bank.

Irene Rich is Wife Again

This combination of bad luck proves the final straw—and Pike goes berserk. His original and surprising methods of getting his family back on its feet again form the climax of the story and round out the unfolding of the picture.

Irene Rich again enacts the role of Mrs. Peters, with Dorothy Jordan, Matty Kemp, Mary Carlisle, Theodore Lodi, Brandon Hurst and many other noted players in the supporting cast. Homer Croy, the author of "They Had to See Paris" wrote the story for the new offering, with Edwin Burke making the screen play and David Butler directing.

JOHN MACK BROWN FILM ENDS TODAY

"The Vanishing Frontier," a story of the old West, starring Johnny Mack Brown, with Evelyn Knapp, ZaSu Pitts, Raymond Hatton and J. Farrell MacDonald in the featured cast, ends its run at Walker's State theater tonight.

Brown is cast as a sort of Robin Hood of the period immediately following Old California's ceding to the United States by Mexico.

Brown, meanwhile, robs the rich to aid the poor, and in blithe defiance of the army, gets what he wants. But when he falls in love with Miss Knapp, daughter of a general; when her brother discovers the fact and is shot to death mysteriously while out "gunning" for Brown; and when she betrays her lover to the army, thinking him responsible for her brother's death, a dramatic and thrilling climax ensues.

ORDER NEW TRIAL IN SUIT FOR FEE

Difficulties of the Santa Ana Times, defunct Santa Ana newspaper and Frank Schroeder, one time business manager for the paper, will be aired in court for the second time following a decision by Judge C. C. Haynes, of San Diego, in granting the petition of the Santa Ana Times for a new trial of the case.

In a recent trial of the suit brought by D. S. Phillips, to whom Schroeder assigned his claim for $6666, allegedly due him as commission for sale of the Times, he was awarded $5666 as one-third of $17,000 received from the sale of the publication. The suit had sought judgment for one-third of $20,000.

In his memorandum of opinion Judge Haynes said that for the first time during arguments for the new trial the defendant raised the question of the authority of the late M. C. Maloney to make contracts such as that with Schroeder that would be binding on other partners.

ROLPH PARDONS MAN NEVER IN COUNTY JAIL

And still the governor's pardons come.

Governor James Rolph, Santa Ana, has pardoned a man who has never been in the county jail.

According to an announcement received here over the United Press today, the governor has signed a pardon for James Bart Jackson, of 726 South Parton street, because he was a violator of the Wright Act and the Wright Act has been repealed.

An investigation shows that Jackson is not in jail here and has never been.

He was arrested by Santa Ana police on June 11, for possession of liquor and tried in the city court on September 17, for violation of the Wright Act. The jury found him guilty, but Jackson immediately appealed the case and is now free on bail of $500 pending a hearing in superior court, the case having been appealed from the city court to the higher court.

Just how officials here are going to present Jackson with his pardon when it arrives together with Governor Rolph's Christmas letter expressing the executive's desire that he has a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, is not known.

Miserly rain gods doled out small portions of rain to various sections of Orange county during the past 24 hours, stopping the precipitation, however, in ample time to insure business men of the county of a clear day for last minute shoppers who were busy today purchasing Christmas gifts.

Citrus growers in the county last night were fortunate in that the cold spell which followed the precipitation did not strike the county until early this morning, allowing the first days of the rising sun to dispel the light coat of frost which had formed on fruit and which would undoubtedly have proved disastrous if it had covered the fruit and trees for a long period of time.

Orchards were soaking wet last night after the rain of the day, and the cold caused ice and frost to form on fruit and trees when the temperature in the Tustin citrus district dropped to the lowest point of the year. The mercury in the key recording station thermometer kept by Ross Shafer of Tustin dropped to 29 degrees at 6 o'clock this morning, remaining at the same figure for about a half hour, when the rise began.

In spite of the ice and frost, citrus fruits were not believed to be damaged, according to Farm Adviser Harold E. Wahlberg, who pointed out that the citrus growers have been very fortunate so far this year in regard to frost.

No smudge pots were lighted anywhere in the county, a check made today revealed, because of the short duration of the low temperatures which are dangerous to citrus fruits.

Santa Ana city area's coldest point during the night and morning was at 3 o'clock this morning, when a temperature of 35 degrees was recorded at the thermometer at the Selserson Supply company.

Rainfall in Santa Ana during the storm totaled but 12 inches, making the seasonal total 2.93 inches, far behind the record set last year at this time when 6.15 inches of rain had fallen.

Fullerton, which has a low average for the year, received the most precipitation during the storm, with a total of 28 inches. Day before yesterday, 25 inches fell in a brief space of time. San Clemente was second in amount of rain yesterday with 23 inches. Not enough rain fell in Tustin to record on the rain gauges. Capistrano leads the county for seasonal total with 4.27 inches.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is fair.

DENIED DAMAGES IN BRIDGE CRASH SUIT

E. W. Brockman was refused judgment of more than $10,000 yesterday by Superior G. K. Scovel, department three, superior court in his damage action against the County of Orange for injuries received when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed through the Verba Linda bridge.

Brockman alleged that carelessness in maintenance of the bridge was responsible for the accident. Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton, handling the county's defense admitted evidence that the automobile in which Brockman was driving struck the bridge and was responsible for the span's collapse.

The European Whirligig NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY JOHN STATESMAN

DEBTS

France may have hurried a booming when she defaulted on her debt payment to the United States. If France need not pay her debts to the U. S., why should we pay ours to France? So asked Argentina, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Hungary and the rest of the France's debtor nations when the default was first threatened.

It will be surprising if "conversations" do not ensue if the default stands.

Unlike a shrewd business man, France never has troubled to help her creditors maintain their solvency. She demanded reparations of Germany when she knew how suicidal German sacrifices would be, and she resolutely refused to make concessions when the stability of Europe seemed to be at stake. Now she demands that America make the very concessions she refused to make. As always, she treats debts and reparations as a political matter. Political solutions did not work nine years ago. They probably will not work now.

The trouble is that the leaders of practically all the French parties, from Marin and Franklin-Bouillon (nationalists) to Franco-Albert (radical socialist) treat the question as one of legitimacy and not of expediency. On this side the view is widely held that the French have repeated on a broader scale the fundamental error of the Versailles treaty. France had not maintained article 237 which provided for the seizure of property of German citizens in victorious countries. For the first time since the war of the middle ages, private property of the vanquished was claimed as a right of victory.

France suffered from those tactics. After the Russian revolution, the national debts to France were repudiated and all private French property in Russia was confiscated without indemnity. M. Tchicherin, commissar of foreign affairs, answered French protests by referring to article 237 of the treaty. M. Tchicherin could not see how revolution differed from war.

Debts might not now be a question if France had not maintained her traditional policy in the Ruhr crisis in 1923. England then proposed a general debt readjustment to effect practical European reconstruction. France refused, seconded by Italy. Had the Bonar Law proposal at the conference of Paris been approved England would have cancelled the debt of Italy and France, and the United States would have been asked to cancel the English, French and Italian debts. England proposed to avoid a European crisis—from the occupation of the Ruhr by renouncing her credits and demanding the same action from America. But then as now France demanded all, conceded nothing. Her debtor nations have the next move.

VATICAN

The Vatican is uneasy over the increasing decrease of financial contributions known as St. Peter's Mite. Contributions in 1931-32 were the smallest in a century. Before the Pope reached his accord with Mussolini (which involved transfer of property and cash totaling $89,000,000) more than half of the revenue came from the United States. France, Canada, Spain, Poland, Belgium and Mexico accounted for most of the balance.

New American contributions have decreased almost 75 per cent, and other countries have reduced their remittances as well. In France separation of Church and State, passage of the Combes laws and the necessity of providing for her own churches have greatly reduced her remittances. Since the fall of the monarchy Spain has sent almost nothing.

FREEMASONRY

Italy is the only large western European country which does not tolerate Freemasonry. Under Fascism almost all Masonic lodges have been suppressed. Certain irregular rites are permitted—perhaps for the purpose of denying the suppression—but true Masonry no longer exists. Mussolini, who opposed Masonry when he was a Socialist and an atheist, has stated publicly, as dictator, that all opposition to him comes from infidels.

BEELGEM

The elections for the Belgium chamber of representatives last month—the first general election since 1929—showed practically no change in the balance of power among Catholics, Liberals and Socialists. But public sentiment has changed. Many Belgians oppose following France's lead in large military expenditures. Socialists and many Catholics—Flemish Catholics especially—are eager for disarmament and oppose further Franco-Belgian military pacts.

The linguistic struggle between Flemish and Walloons is still a sore spot but military policy is causing the real discussion.

Belgium's greatest strength has been her neutrality, but her first act after the war was to renounce it. She built fortifications on the German and Dutch frontiers and effected a military alliance with France. Few know exactly what this alliance involves but Belgium armaments are primarily directed against Germany.

The military group is trying to form a coalition government of Catholic Conservatives and Liberals to align Belgium with the armament plans of the French general staff. Such a government would not have a majority and would soon fall. The Socialists, with two-fifths of the chamber membership—there are only three Communists—and a considerable number of Catholics are working hard for a disarmament policy.

TURKEY

Turkey, like Persia and other Mohammedan countries, sympathizes actively with Russia. Politically this is quite understandable because of Mohammedan distrust of England and western Europe. But it isn't so easy to explain why, to create young industries, Turkey should turn to the Soviet Union, itself in the greatest industrial disorder, its industry functioning at a loss at the expense of agriculture. Turkey, which had no industry, now is vigorously trying to build up her manufactures under the direction of her ghazi, Mustapha Kemal.

She is starting by building a cotton cloth factory at Mezilli, a paper factory at Ala-Chehir, a sack factory at Smyrna, and a textile factory at Eski-Chekir. The commission of Soviet civil, mechanical, electrical, and mining engineers, chemists, and architects has been in Turkey for three months, to prepare a Turkish miniature of the Five Year Plan.

PEACE

Mr. Winston Churchill likes to call himself a realist but he sometimes ignores facts. The thesis which he advances is that the European situation is bad, but that the present dominance of France assures some stability. According to Mr. Churchill, France is still in a condition to impose the status quo. Always let well enough alone, says he: it is preferable to have a dozen more years of unipolar peace rather than to precipitate war. Europe's chances for peace are enhanced by the horror inspired by war, by the strength of the French army, by the enormous armaments of Japan which mesmerize Russia and the Far East, etc., etc.

The truth is that the vanquished accepted the peace treaties, but resentfully, and France's position is not as secure as it was. Nobody in Germany is satisfied with the eastern frontier. Hungarians are still incensed at the partitioning of their territory. In Bulgaria the anniversary of the treaty of Neuilly was this year observed as a day of mourning, and the newspapers appeared with black borders. Italy is encouraging dissatisfaction with the treaty in order to maintain her prestige.

Because of this general dissatisfaction with the treaties European nations maintain large armaments. But Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia can no longer keep up their present level of military expenditures, and a large group in Belgium favors cancelling the military agreement with France. The allies of France are in a desperate plight.

The entire tax revenue of France has fallen off and the financial deficit is very serious. It will be difficult for her to maintain the present system of armaments. If she cannot, her ability to maintain the status quo is by no means certain.

TECHNOCRACY CLAIMS MEN
ARE OUTMODDED BY MACHINESProgress Made By Machines
Is Outlined By Scientists

Technocracy, which forecasts control of this nation by engineers, claims to have made some startling discoveries in the course of its scientific analysis of our social mechanism. Something of Technocracy's methods and their results is explained in this, the third of a series of six articles.

BY PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Under the casual title of "An Energy Survey of North America" are being compiled some 3000 complicated graphs and charts which some scientists believe will change the whole future course of this continent's life.

These charts are the substance of Technocracy, and by them the organization and its sensational promises of prosperity, leisure and progress must stand or fall.

Technocracy is now on the defensive against critics who condemn the scheme as contrary to all established American principle and as dangerous to American morale at a time when it already is precariously balanced. Technocracy has only half-facts, reinforced by speculative theory, with which to fight back. "But just wait," say the Technocrats, "until we have all our data ready."

Many physical scientists, as well as economists, politicians and industrialists, now are among the doubters of the new philosophy of national technical control. But Howard Scott, chief Technocrat, is confident that once his fact-finding project is finished, and the complete functioning of our "social mechanism" has been pictured in blue-prints, the world can do nothing other than believe.

"Engineers may differ in political and social beliefs," Scott said, "but not as scientists. Engineers as such can be neither radical nor conservative; given facts, they cannot dissent. If we provide them with all the data on what is happening industrially to this country, they will all reach the same conclusion."

Likened to Power Plant

BUT WHY did Technocracy begin its work? Was it not necessary to make an unscientific assumption that there was something wrong with our present system before starting out to discover scientifically what was the matter with it?

Let Professor Walter Rautenstrauch, head of the industrial engineering department of Columbia University, and host to the Technocrats, answer this one:

"No," he said. "We started on perfectly valid observations. If we had a power plant, for instance, that failed to respond automatically to increased or lightened loads, we would know it was out of adjustment.

"We have seen our social mechanism get farther and farther out of adjustment. Industrial employment goes down; production goes up. Consumption doesn't keep pace with production; but debt goes skyrocketing. Depressions follow booms; but each succeeding period of prosperity is shorter and each depression is lower and of longer duration. It is like a huge machine shaking itself to pieces."

Here are some other observations of the Technocrats:

For 7000 years mankind had to depend on the human body for energy, and no change was effected in the rate of doing work. Then James Watt and his steam engine started a revolution. In the last 100 years, with steam and electricity, we have multiplied our energy resources 9,000,000 times. Scott says that of this acceleration, 8,768,000 has occurred since 1900.

Machine-Age Progress.

As for production increases, there are almost as many significant examples as there are machines. Five days once were required to make a pair of shoes; today one workman can make 63 pairs of shoes in that time . . . Old-time brickmakers produced about 450 per day per man; a modern straight-line plant can make as many as 400,000 per day per man . . . A glass-blowing machine operated by one man can do the work of 19 using the handcraft method . . . A miller of old could make a barrel and a half of flour a day; a modern mill can produce 30,000 barrels a day per man—with a shorter day and better flour.

Labo- looms in heroic proportions in the commonly accepted picture of mechanistic America . . . But Technocracy poses the question of whether man has become a mere adjunct to the machine . . . For instance, 100 times more work is done when a man lays aside a shovel to guide a giant coal-digging machine like the one shown here.

More up-to-date comparisons are furnished by statements that: 1923 with one-third as many man hours as were required in 1919—and one-twelfth as many as in 1909 . . . Freight car unloading machinery is 216 times as rapid as hand labor . . . Seventy men operating a digging machine can do the work of 7000 with pick and shovel . . . With the same number of men, three times as much pig iron can be produced now as in 1904 . . . American power stations, employing a total of about 240,000 men, can produce energy equaling the work of 1,350,000,000 men . . . A rayon plant is being built in New Jersey which will require no human labor except for one man pushing buttons . . . Electric light bulb production has been speeded up 9000 times, per man hour, since 1914.

What are some other aspects of the picture as the Technocrats see it? While production increased at a fairly steady pace, employment in the manufacturing industries also increased—until 1918. Then,

Scott says, the charts of every industry so far studied show that man-hours began to decrease while production continued to increase. These trends continued until 1929, when both fell off sharply.

Watch Course of Depressions

They dropped, as everyone knows, into the present depression. And about depressions, Technocracy has this to say: That each succeeding one has been greater than the last, and that each furnished the impetus for greater mechanization of industry. Production efficiency was increased 9 per cent in 1905, 8 per cent in 1909, 11 per cent in 1913, 9 per cent in 1915 and 29 per cent in 1922. Today, says Technocracy, industry is so efficient that if our peak production of 1929 were to be resumed, less than half of our unemployed workers could be re-employed. And at the rate of decline now anticipated, another ten years would bring the unemployment total to 25,000,000.

Now about debts, which do not concern Technocracy except insofar as they are considered to be helping shake to pieces our present system: "We lift ourselves out of depression by the creation of new debt," Scott declares. "Our debt totals continue to rise when every other index, like production, employment and consumption, is decreasing. We now owe 18 times as much as in 1915, and more than four times as much per capita. Our total industrial debt today is about $218,000,000,000, and it is increasing at a geometric rate. Taxes and obsolescence included, the fixed charges on this debt now are $34,000,000,000 a year—nearly half the national income.

In 1928. These obligations, which must be supported by the sale of goods, are growing faster than the goods are being produced."

Says Era Has Ended

The old argument that has been advanced against the menace of technology—that the displacement of workers in industry reduces them for the building up of new industries—no longer holds good, the Technocrats believe. They admit that that has happened before, but declare that a limit has been reached. They claim to have discovered that technological advances now are bounding upward in geometric progression, whereas before they proceeded arithmetically. They say that the creation of new industries cannot possibly check the decline of employment because old industries are constantly being further mechanized and the few new ones are made mechanically efficient as soon as they appear.

If there were no other restraining factor, Technocracy believes, our present rates of growth would be curbed by scarcity of raw materials. Since 1900, they announce, the United States has mined more iron than has been produced by all the world since the dawn of history. And if coal production were to increase at the rate it has in the past, we would need a ball of coal as large as the earth to supply our needs for the next 50 years.

These are some of the reported findings of Technocracy. Most of them have been criticized as inaccurate by reputable authorities in each field.

NEXT: Technocracy looks ahead.

SPORTS through Eegren EYES

By Robert Edgren

One growing thing in these hard times is the football season. Teams are playing more games late in the season, hoping to catch a little extra dough. In time it would not be a surprise to see football schedules extended right up to New Year's Day, with mid southern or western skies overhead.

This year, Frisco, Alabama played late in the season with St. Mary's; California tangled with Georgia Tech, U. S. C. met Notre Dame, Florida played host to U. C. L. A., and even Oregon went south for a December game. Notre Dame is trying to schedule a yearly affair with California so as to play on the coast every year, in which case they will always play a December game. The boys will no longer get off the field than it will be time to report for spring practice.

This year extra games late in the season have been welcomed by the university treasurers. Michigan with an unbeaten, untied championship team drew only $25,000 for this year as compared to $25,000 or so who watched the team last season. New York university's ticket sales fell off about 40 per cent, and even Princeton, with a pretty new team, suffered at the gate. The attendance of about 100,000 raving bugs at the Notre Dame game saved U. S. C. from a drop in attendance.

Schedule makers for next year are playing up the inter-sectional angle because no successful team nowadays wants to be overlooked in the national championship ratings. Colgate's cry of "unbeaten, untied, unscored on, and untied" shows how necessary it is to schedule big opponents if you're seeking a Rose Bowl invitation. Fordham has planned to take on Alabama, St. Mary's and Oregon State in three successive Saturdays. That's a large order for any team, even if they did take on the toughest one first.

Along with the growth of inter-sectional competition comes the rise of the east in football standings. Eastern teams are beginning to take a serious interest in beating other sections, and with a crop

"BABE" DIDRIKSON CAN MAKE $50,000 IN NEXT SIX MONTHS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(INS)—Miss "Babe" Didrikson, the gal who was not done right by, is coming into New York next week to begin the career of professional athlete. The Amateur Athletic union seemed at such pains to thrust on her.

The lady is coming here to cash in on her prominence and, in fact, emence, as the A. A. U. first said she had done, when it seemed she hadn't, and then said she hadn't, when it became apparent she had decided that she might as well. I might add that it looks very much like a green Christmas for the lady, a long and green Christmas with Santa Claus baricading himself outside the family entrance behind a platoon of fountain pens.

Vaudeville offers, movie and magazine offers; offers for personal appearances, commercial promotions and a contract covering an exhibition series against teams of women athletes—all await her here.

So does an offer for a stunt promotion by which she will attempt to set a new women's record for the coast-to-coast run by automobile. It may be that there is neither a new nor an old women's record, but why be technical? The day is not prepared to quarrel

900 HORSES AT TRACK: $50,000 RACE MARCH 26

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Dec. 24.—(UP)—The bobolinks will start running over the Agua Caliente course tomorrow when the 82-day meeting opens with a fanfare of ceremony.

Thousands of race fans from Southern California are expected to throng this resort town for start of what promoters say will be the most successful season, at least from a racing standpoint, in the brief history of the present course.

With a larger number of northern stables represented than usual, slightly more than 800 horses are entered for the meeting. The session will reach a grand climax March 26, with the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap.

Joseph M. Schenck, president, will rule as master of ceremonies at the "grand opening fiesta" which will continue for 15 consecutive afternoons.

Among the features to be observed at the track this season will be a new starting gate—a padded machine on wheels, containing 14 stalls which is pulled by a tractor to the various starting points; Turf and Field club with Wallace Beery, motion picture star as president and Hunt Stromberg, prominent Hollywood director as secretary; "seven straight" betting system; with a guaranteed prize of $5000 for those wise enough in their selections; and, in addition, a new lineup of track officials.

Judge Christopher Fitzgerald issued a strident manifesto against "rough riding."

"No rough riding will be tolerated," Fitzgerald told the jockeys. "Infraction of the rules will result in suspension. Repetition of rough riding will mean a longer suspension and if the case is aggravated it will be dealt with by a suspension for the duration of the meeting."

Crack Jockeys Available
The manifesto was delivered to the 65 jockeys and 25 apprentice riders who are on the approved roster. Fitzgerald promised that once the rules were arranged so that the older, heavier riders will have an equal chance against lighter apprentices.

Some of the better known jockeys include "Spots" Humphries, who will carry the colors of Mrs. Paul Kelley, Wayne Wright, "Smoky" Saunders, Howard Grayson, Bobby Elden, Lloyd Tumble, Herman Schutte, Steve O'Donnell, Everett Perry and George Woolf.

Promoters were jubilant over the return of many Northern stables to Agua Caliente, which they considered a good omen for financial success of the season. Including among the stables represented are those of C. A. Hartwell, Hawaiian breeder; Harry Unna, well known Western trainer; Bert Baroni, Ted Horning, Major E. Christensen and Marion Hollins. Unna has a dozen mounts in his stable, including a popular Eastern favorite, Hygro, whom he recently bought from his Chicago owners for $12,000. Hygro will be nominated for the $50,000 Handicap.

"This is the best practice we have had since the Stanford game."

A hot sun boiled down on the sandy field as Sutherland and his chief assistant, "Swede" Gustafson, engaged their first and second string machines with Bill Ken's reserves who used Southern California tactics. Similar drills were in prospect today and one or two days next week before the Panthers begin tapering off in their exercises.

Sutherland called a sudden halt in the equestrian activities of his boys who after several canters into the desert appeared a bit stiff-legged.

The Pitt gridders will spend Christmas at church and on a sightseeing junket into the desert.

SUTHERLAND TO KEEP PANTHERS AT GRINDSTONE

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 24.—(UP)—Cheered by the prospects of continued good weather, Coach Jock Sutherland scheduled another rigorous practice session today for his Pittsburgh football squad.

Sutherland indicated he would remain here until the latter part of next week before moving on to Pasadena where the Panthers meet Southern California in the Tournament of Roses game, January 2.

The coach sent his perspiring warriors through a prolonged scrimmage session yesterday and afterwards forgot his usual glumness to enthuse:

"This is the best practice we have had since the Stanford game."

SPORTS Of All Sorts

The dispute as to which of the Warner brothers is fastest was settled at the recent baseball meeting in New York when Paul Warner announced that as far as speed was concerned, he didn't figure with brother Lloyd.

"Why the son-of-a-gun has been faster than me ever since we were kids," Paul declared. "We had a farm in Oklahoma and Lloyd and I were raising watermelons. Every day we'd go out and tend those melons. One of them was my pride. It was big and getting bigger and we had to exercise a lot of control not to open it up. But it wasn't quite ripe so we decided to wait."

"One morning we walked out to the patch and by golly the melon was gone. I was awful sore about it too. I noticed some 'footprints' going away from the melon patch over toward the Hinkles who lived on the next farm. I was sore as could be and suggested to Lloyd that we go and follow those footprints and find who had swiped the melon."

"We followed the prints to a wall dividing our farms and there was the melon half eaten. Say that broke my heart. We started walking back and I was looking down at those footprints. Lloyd was in front of me and he was bare footed. All of a sudden I noticed that his footprints were the same as those we had been following."

"You son-of-a-gun," I said, "you swiped that melon yourself."

"Sure I did," he said calmly. "If I hadn't you would have grabbed it."

"Even in those days," Paul concluded, "that kid brother of mine was faster than me. That ought to settle the matter once and for all."

PROS AFTER UTAH GRIDMEN
Two more Rocky Mountain conference football stars hope to follow the trail blazed by Earl (Dutch) Clark, former Colorado college star, to gridiron glory in the professional ranks.

Frank Christensen, fullback and Jack Johnson, tackle, on the Utah university squad for the past three years, revealed while in Denver recently that they had been offered contracts to play with the Chicago Bears next year.

JACOBS EDGES GARDEN OUT OF BEST '33 BOUT

BY JACK CUDDY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(UP)—This being Christmas Eve, it seems a kindly gesture to remember one of those boxing managers, an orphan of the sports world, passed up by the experts picking the best of this and that.

Wherefore, Joseph ("Yussel") Jacobs is awarded a box of his favorite El Stencho stogies for the most adroit maneuvered feat of 1932. Although Yussel is only 36, this is the second time he has received such an award. He was the recipient in 1930 when Herr Max Schmeling left Arthur von Bielew's corral for a stall in Jacobs' stable.

The 1932 honors are conferred because of the dexterity with which "Yussel" maneuvered Schmeling and Max Baer into a 15-round bout, outside of Madison Square Garden's jurisdiction and under the direction of Jack Dempsey. It was one of the smartest managerial feats in ring history.

Jacobs, Carey Hostile
It happened like this. Jacobs became extremely irate at the Garden's president, William F. Carey, and its boxing director, Jimmy Johnston, in June because he thought Schmeling had been robbed of his championship title in the Jack Sharkey fight.

Because the Garden had reduced prices for the bout, cutting the gate to $425,000 instead of the $750,000 he had expected.

Jacobs and Ancil Hoffman, Baer's principal manager, have been close friends for years. When Joe suspected that Jimmy Johnston was trying to inveigle Baer under Brother Charlie Johnston's wing, he advised Hoffman not to accept the Garden's offer for a bout with Primo Carnera. The winner was to fight Sharkey.

With Baer on the sidelines, only Mickey Walker was left as an attractive contender for Sharkey's crown. So "Yussel" let Schmeling put Walker out of the picture one September night at the Garden Bowl.

Ruth, Weight 229, Begins Fight On Fat

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(INS)—Babe Ruth, who yesterday began his annual winter task of fighting the fat at Artie McGovern's gymnasium, reported today his weight was 229 pounds, the lowest figure at which he has tipped the scales in December during recent years. He will work out for two months before heading southward.

The home run king of the Yankees gave the following formula for keeping in shape: Stick to home diet and proper cooking. Get nine hours' sleep each night. Drink almost a gallon of water a day. Take plenty of exercise.

Four members of the Santa Ana Church Basketball league—First Christian, St. Joseph's Catholic, Latter Day Saints and M. E. South—were deadlocked for the top position in second-half standings today.

The four-way tie resulted from games at the Y. M. C. A. last night, the First Christians defeating a revamped M. E. South team, 50-22, and St. Joseph's Catholic escaping with a 15-14 decision over Costa Mesa Community.

Jack Stewart, with 22 points, and Bill Kolkhorst, with 18, featured the Christian offensive attack against South Methodist lineup missing such stars as Ted Cook, Orv Schuchardt and George Preble. Hurd, forward, scored 10 points for M. E. South.

Trailing 10 to 2 at the half, the Catholics outpointed Costa Mesa, 13 to 4, in the final two quarters to score their score victory. Every starting player in both lineups had a hand in the point-making.

ST. ANA AMATEUR CARDS 72 HERE GOGGIN HAS 75

Braving a rain that sent most of the experts scurrying for the nineteenth hole, John Dawson, Chicago amateur, onetime member of the U. S. Walker Cup team, circled the Santa Ana Country club's golf course in par 72 yesterday.

Dawson was one of eight stars who traversed the layout despite the handicap of the rain and wind, the others being John DeForrest, British amateur champion; Bob Sweeney, Jimmy Thompson, Dallas Jeffers, Willie Goggin, Larry Gleason and Ben Richter.

All these are widely known players among those now following the golf trail in the Far West. They played here gratis. The biggest gallery in the country club's history started in pursuit of the foursomes but was soon routed by the storm.

Other experts who started but left the links after four holes included Dick Metz, Ky. Lafoon, Archie Hambrick, Oscar Oman, Dick Linares, John Africa, George Shaw, Cliff Kastle, and John McCorkle.

Dawson's 72, a highly respectable score under any conditions, easily featured the exhibition. Dawson was old regularly himself—straight and true off the tees, keenly accurate with his irons, deadly with his putter. The soggy greens did not seem to trouble him in the least.

Willie Goggin, San Francisco pro who finished second in the California Open, shot a 75, three above par.

Bob Sweeney, British-American from Oxford university, one of the most promising of the young players, was third with 77.

John DeForrest, British amateur champion, and Santa Ana's Jeffers shot 80. Larry Gleason, pro in the Virginia club in Long Beach, had an 81. Jimmy Thompson, Colorado Springs, Colo., required an 82.

Dawson's card:

Par.....534 443 448-36
Dawson.....534 343 446-36
(In)
Par.....354 435 435-36
Dawson.....354 435 435-36

Dawson and Sweeney teamed against DeForrest and Thompson, winning 3 and 2. One of the features of the match was Thompson's 325-yard drive down the first fairway.

Jeffers and Gleason won from Goggin and Richter, 2 and 1.

Orange county's major baseball teams will be idle tomorrow while they observe Christmas day.

Santa Anita and Costa Mesa play a practice game on the Santa Anita Always diamond but all other clubs have postponed their contests until January 1.

The Southern California league resumes action Sunday, January 1, with the Los Angeles Paramounts engaging Santa Ana's Hancock Oilers here. Orange County Winter league games scheduled that day: Irvine at Huntington Beach, Hancock Oil at Laguna Beach, Santa Anita at Costa Mesa.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

The Narrow Corner by W. Somerset Maugham, published by Doubleday, Doran & Company. Dr. Saunders, a doctor living in the Malay Archipelago, is summoned to Takana, an island in the Malay Archipelago, to attend a rich Chinese merchant. There were strong financial inducements to tempt the doctor from his practice but once he was away he enjoyed his laund, for like Ulysses he didn't go directly home. Dr. Saunders is waiting the Dutch ship, not due for several months, rather impatiently, for his service to the Chinese merchant is finished, when there arrives an uninvited "pearling" ship. It is captained by an individual of doubtful character, a Captain Nichols. He is suffering from dyspepsia, has been for years and he is overworked to see Dr. Saunders, hoping for a cure. Captain Nichols is accompanied by Fred Blake, a handsome but surly youth. There is an air of mystery about Blake and an authentic note of crookedness about Captain Nichols which serves to overshadow Blake as well. Dr. Saunders takes passage on board their boat to another port where he is more likely to get ship to Fu-Chou.

The mystery surrounding Blake and the character of Dr. Saunders keeps interest lively until a new group of characters is introduced one of whom is a beautiful young girl. There is a sordid affair between Blake and the girl which serves to shatter the romance of the girl and a Dane who had idealized her. The tragedy of the Dane brings out the mystery of Blake for the latter pours his whole story into Dr. Saunders' ears.

The character of Dr. Saunders is the most interesting in the book and one wishes that the author had continued to develop the story around him for one judges from hints in the beginning that there is that in Dr. Saunders' background which would have lent itself to a good story. It may well be, however, that the author intended to indicate in that fashion that Dr. Saunders' background of experience was a part of the character of the man, making him understanding and yet remote from the experiences of others.

Bloody Years by F. Yeats-Brown published by The Viking Press. "Bloody Years" is a good story of adventure but it has not the unique charm of the author's personality which proved so attractive in "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." It is as though that book were the frank outpouring of experience tempered by personality of an engaging youngster whereas in this book he has begun to disseminate and reserve himself.

It is the story of the author's capture by the Arabs, imprisonment by the Turks, internment in prison and repeated attempts to escape from prison which brought him to the edge of freedom which was consummated just before the close of the war. The author is diplomatic and just in presenting this story of ghastly experiences in Turkish prisons. Let us be aroused by his description to feel again the bitterness and hatred of the war years and let us add to the legends about the "wicked Turk" he devotes the first sixty or seventy pages to a history of Turkey since 1908 - - - the struggle of the young Turks, the dismemberment of Turkey by the surrounding powers aided by those more remote which gave the Turkish revolutionaries cause to hate the people of the West. The Turks had their country dismembered just at a time when the ambitious young Turks were hoping to modernize the country and free it from the ignominy brought on the country by the cruelties of the Sultan.

After a brief history of Turkey the sixteen years preceding the war, the author tells of his own experiences. Sent to cut the telegraph line by which Bagdad communicated with the Euphrates he and the pilot of the airplane were captured. For two and a half years he was in prison. Repeatedly he tried to escape, some of his attempts are comical, most of them exciting.

In the book we have portrayed the English officer, and there is material which reminds one of Barbusse.

Criminals and Politicians, A History of the Rackets' Red Rule by Davis Tilden Lynch, published by The MacMillan Company.

"Criminals and Politicians" like the facts of the technocrate is a sad story with a hopeful ending. It is a terrible story of racketeering exposed in this book. There variety of the rackets inclines one to believe that the ground has been pretty well combed and that there is not a profitable racket which has not been exploited. There is the milk racket, the cleaners and dyers, the laundry, fish, window glass, etc. etc. One reviewer says that the story is so terrifying that after reading it one is frightened by the backfire of a taxi cab. If anyone wants to know where all the money has gone they can discover the whereabouts of it in the figures presented by Mr. Lynch. One popular lecturer even when so far as to advance this as one of the reasons for the depression. Seriously the amount made by the racketeers would keep the federal government operating for several years. For the reign of the racketeer costs the people of the United States $12,000,000,000 to $18,000,000,000 a year, three or four times the cost of maintaining the Federal government.

Every city of consequence where the racket flourishes has been visited by Mr. Lynch and the hopeful part of the book arises from the fact that he gives some city's a "clean bill of health." There are plenty of cities he says which have learned how to keep the racketeer out and where he does exist it is because he has an alliance with the politicians and the police.

Mr. Lynch tells us there have been fully five thousand gang murders in the last decade.

We also read in the book that New York has gotten busy examining into the racketeering, now when it is pretty late, because so many factories have moved from the city. "The grafters," says Mr. Lynch, "are slowly but steadily driving the commerce from the port and industry from the metropolis."

"Criminals and Politicians" is an exceedingly important book. It is astounding that "Gimme or How Politicians Get Rich" by Lavine which appeared several months ago and was on the same subject was not more widely considered. Post-part the same fate awaits this book. New York, Chicago and Detroit are a bit remote but citizens in those places were indifferent too long and this is their story today. Places are free from the racketeer because officials are sufficiently

PLAN FANCY DRESS BALL AND ART EXHIBIT AT LAGUNA BEACH

Two events of importance are being planned by the Laguna Beach Art association for the near future. One gay holiday event is the artist's costume ball which has been arranged for New Year's eve at the Laguna Beach art gallery. The other event is a stimulating exhibition to end this year and begin the next.

The ball will be held in the main gallery of the hall, with music to be furnished by Jack Gledhill's orchestra.

For more serious diversion, Vladimir Ussachevsky, Russian pianist and composer, will play some of his own compositions. Count Wolo, well known caricaturist, will be present to draw sketches of guests.

The lower gallery will be transformed into a lounge and theater. George Dunham, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dilwyn Parrish, will present a clever sketch by Arthur Miller, art critic of a Los Angeles newspaper. A buffet supper will be served. Tickets may be obtained through any member of the association, or through Sonia Wolfson of the Hsley Galleries, Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles.

All types of paintings will be represented at the art show which will last until the end of January. There are many styles of art, shading from the academic-realist through impressionistic, post-impressionistic, sub-realistic to a complete and lovely abstraction. The contrasts make the show interesting and profitable.

Of greatest aesthetic importance, is "The Offering" by Gura Stojana, noted artist who has been invited by Louis Danz, president of the association, to exhibit.

Among the fine paintings which will be exhibited is Everett Goe Jackson's "Zapotecas," an arrangement of tubular forms. Rinald Cuno shows two small paintings. Wilson Coles provides the whimsical note in the exhibition with

CHANGE DATES FOR CLAREMONT PLAYS

Announcing the change in their production dates from two weeks to a full week, the Claremont Community Players begin the New Year with that thrilling mystery play, "Remote Control," opening January 3 and running through Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday afternoon, at the Little Theater in Padua Hills. The Players are returning to the schedule followed last year because of the many conflicts on week-ends in the surrounding localities.

"Remote Control" scored a sensational hit in both its New York and its Pacific coast runs. The play has the novel background of a radio broadcasting station as its locale, and its leading character is a radio announcer extraordinary named Walter Brokenchild. Fred Graesser, Claremont actor noted for his many clever character parts in such plays as "June Moon," "The Dover Road," "Redemption" and many others, replaces Stanley Larson in the part of Brokenchild. Philip Madison, Louis Leezer, Fred Shine, Hope Titus and Mary Jane Johnson are others added to the cast as previously announced.

Interspersed with the grimaces of murder is a broad vein of comedy, a certain charm of romance between Brokenchild and Helen Wright, his secretary, and a picturing of the intimate and tremendously interesting details of actual radio broadcasting. Complete technical equipment will be used in the production. Throughout the play's action is heard the voice of the Chicago Police Department broadcasting instructions to the police cars.

A tap dancer performs on one of the many programs introduced in the play. A group of Junior League singers bring interrupted by a robbery. There is infinite variety in "Remote Control" and not a dull moment. The cast is large and a talented one, being drawn from all over the valley. The play will be directed by Mary Blaisdell Harris, and Fred Orin Harris is in charge of the settings.

Modern Christmas Poems

AWAKE, CHRISTMAS MORNING
Alone in the snow-light the throes are singing
In the hush before the dawning
when our Lord Christ was born;
Before the air is silvered by the first bells ringing,
Or the frosty creak of footsteps breaks the still, still morn.

No, there is nothing but a blue star sailing
Past my eastern window where the day will break;
No sign yet of the night sky paling.
None but the throes know, and are awake.

Here is the house the darkness is listening
The holly in the stillness, and the good pine smells;
Nothing but the throes, and the great star glistening,
And then—far away—the carol of the bells.

—Edith Ballington Price
in "The Four Winds."

THE SHEPHERD'S DOG SPEAKS TO MARY

Mary, let a shaggy beast,
Eager, gentle-eyed,
Growl, and guard thy baby son,
Bristling by the side
Of the manger where He lies
Who has never cried.

Mary, I have left my flock
Gathered in the fold,
All to seek a little lamb,
Not so very old.
May my soft and bushy hair
Keep him from the cold.

Mary, wolves are in the hills,
Hark, I hear them call,
Human wolves who seek to harm
One so dear and small.
Lo, I worship at His feet,
He is King of all.

—Beulah May in "Decimal."

ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Scented woods and gold,
Costly stuff and fair,
On Christmas day
Were offered there.
But they
Who tendered royal gifts were kings and very old,
And you, my little son
Are not yet one.

Love him very well,
Tenderly and true,
On Christmas day,
And you shall do
Sufficiently as they
Who offered scented wood and plates of gold
To Mary's little Son,
Not one year old.

—Esther Lillian Duff.

CAROL O' BETHLEHEM

Mary stood at the manger-side
With her elbows on the rim;
He smiled the whimsical sweet smile
That shamed the cherubim.
Then straightway tossed His little legs—
The hay pricks tickled Him.

Mary laughed and bent down low—
Mary, blessed of God's grace!
He curled His little pink toes up
And gurgled in her face:
Then pulled her hair right sturdily
In that calm holy place.

Aye, Jesus was a baby too,
And plucked His mother's hair—
She loved Him much more thus, I ween.

Than as King anywhere.
—John McClure.

THE STARS

The stars are lighted candles
Upon a Christmas tree;
(The branches that they hang upon
We cannot ever see.)
On Christmas eve the angels stand
About it after tea.

And if an angel's very good
He gets a present, as he should.
—Mary Caroline Davies.

'How Big, Ocean?' Asks Aged Indian

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Sally Laird, a full-blooded Shoshone Indian, has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Smith for an extended visit.

She was born in Lone Pine, Inyo county, and is about 100 years old. She remembers seeing the Indian wars in that county when a child and was never further away than 40 miles from there before coming here.

As long as Mrs. Smith was a resident of Lone Pine, about 20 years, the Indian woman was her servant, living nearby in a tent. Sally sits on the beach by the hour, looking out over the water, and asks repeatedly, "How big, ocean?"

TWO FEATURES COMING SUNDAY TO BROADWAY

Patrons of the Fox Broadway theater are to be given a Christmas present on Christmas day and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday following when the theater will present two big features instead of one, it was announced today by the management.

"The Penguin Pool Murder," more of a comedy than a murder mystery, and "The Half Naked Truth," starring Lupe Velez and the wise cracking Lee Tracy, are the two features.

The murder mystery picture is called "the most amiable murder mystery" that has been made this year. It is the story of a detective, played by James Gleason, sometimes smart, sometimes dumb, who investigates the homicidal drowning of a victim in a penguin's pool in a park. Edna May Oliver, who was present at the time, proved the stumbling block in the officer's path time and again, to make one of the funniest murder stories the screen has yet made.

The story is unusually presented, in that the murderer is known to the audience all the time but not to the detective, who does solve the mystery at the end. Donald Cook, Mae Clark and Robert Armstrong also have big parts in the production.

"The Half Naked Truth" is the story of a star and her press agent. The gaze that Tracy doesn't dig up to publicize his star are not worth listening to after seeing this picture. It is a wisecracking picture in which Miss Velez is seen in all sorts of roles to get her publicity, always by the guiding hand of Tracy who is the big star of the picture. Tracy's publicity campaigns gain her more publicity than she can use, but all go to make the picture a howling successful comedy throughout.

Edmund Lowe, CROMWELL SEEN AT WEST COAST

Edmund Lowe in "The Devil Is Driving" and "That's My Boy," featuring Richard Cromwell, gives to the Fox West Coast theater an unusual attraction for Saturday and Christmas day.

Two big features, each a stellar film of its own, both different in nature and both full of thrills and excitement are a guarantee of diversified entertainment for the week-end.

In "The Devil Is Driving," there is a story of love and adventure as is found in these modern days of gangs and automobiles. The story centers around a big city garage, where a gang of automobile thieves change a car's appearance in 10 minutes after it is stolen. Death rides in many of the cars. Adventure is just around the corner for Lowe, who is employed there as a mechanic. Then there is Wynn Gibson, his girl, who almost shares a terrible fate with him, and her little brother and father, played by Dickie Moore and James Gleason who meet the fate the gang puts out.

It is Lowe's best picture in a long time, the critics say, and it should be unusual entertainment. "That's My Boy" is a football picture that is built on thrills. It is a picture the younger generation will get a big thrill in watching, while its cast includes Richard Cromwell, Joan Marsh, Dorothy Jordan and Mae March.

"MATCH KING" HERE MONDAY AT WEST COAST

"The Match King," starring Warren Williams and Lily Damita, together with "He Learned About Women," featuring Stuart Erwin and Allison Skipworth, will come to the Fox West Coast theater Monday for three days.

These two features, one heavy, the other light, should prove ample holiday entertainment.

In "The Match King," taken from a tragedy which rocked Europe recently, there is an intense drama with much suspense and anxiety. It is a picture which will build the audience up to its climax in a startling manner and the climax is so much as it should be that nothing is left out to make it a picture which will be long remembered here.

"He Learned About Women" is strictly comedy. It is the story of a young and dumb man who suddenly inherits $50,000,000. He decides to see life. The old adage of youth must be served is carried out—but not by youth, for Erwin falls in with a number of big old women, played by Trilix Frizanda, Marie Dressler, Polly Moran and Allison Skipworth.

There is a girl in the show, too, Susan Fleming, a newcomer to the screen, who gives an unusually good performance. How they all try to separate him from his money, until Allison and Susan turn for him and chase the gold diggers away, make for good comedy throughout. Erwin, as a bookworm, is given one of those roles in which he is superb.

RARE COMEDY SEEN IN BROADWAY FILM

Chasing a band of desperate criminals may be no laughing matter, but it is said to provide the basis for a series of uproarious situations and much amusing dialogue on "Me And My Gal," the Fox comedy now playing at the Fox Broadway theater.

Joan Bennett and Spencer Tracy play the leading roles and sustain the romance, Tracy appearing as an ambitious but amorous young radio car detective and Miss Bennett portraying the role of a sophisticated cashier in a chop house.

"Me And My Gal" boasts a cast that includes Marion Burns, who came to pictures from the New York stage, George Walsh, J. Farrell Macdonald, Henry B. Walthall, Noel Madison and George Chandler.

New Year's Show Seats Now Offered

Seats are now on sale in the lobby of the Fox Broadway theater for the big New Year's midnight show which will be given at the theater for Santa Ana merry-makers.

All seats are reserved and must be reserved prior to the show. The show this year, bigger than before, according to Manager Les Fountain, will include the showing of a pre-released big Hollywood production, together with a stage show, which although made up of vaudeville acts will be presented as a gigantic revue.
